

Dump Tour Saturday

The members of the League of Women Voters Environmental Quality Committee will conduct tours of the dump on Saturday, March 18, from 9 - 12. The purpose is to enable the townspeople to get a better look at the sanitary landfill site and its problems prior to town meeting.

Town Meeting: Part I

With Housekeeping Done, Action Turns To Schools

The Department of Public Works won a bulldozer and lost a sweeper Monday night as 887 voters spent slightly over three hours and $3 million caring for such municipal house-keeping duties as care of the dump, sweeping the streets, collection of garbage and plowing snow in the opening session of the annual town meeting.

After deliberation of some 69 municipal budget items, the meeting was adjourned to next Monday, at which time attention will be given to the $7 million-plus, detailed school department budget, other budget items and the 50 remaining articles in the warrant.

It is anticipated the annual session will stretch over another two or three Monday nights.

This coming Monday, when the session resumes at 7:30 in Memorial Auditorium of East Junior High School, the voters will be considering a school budget which is totally itemized.

At the request of the Finance Committee, the School department has submitted its budget by program, thus allowing the voters to question various aspects of the schools.

This past Monday, the action by the voters in exceeding FinCom recommendations has amounted to a tax rate increase consideration of about 65 cents according to FinCom Chairman Dr. Albert Greenberg.

The budget was increased by $65,000 in the sanitary landfill category over FinCom objection. The snow removal account was also increased by $65,000 with only slight quarrel from the FinCom.

The FinCom succeeded in cutting the Planning Board budget from the requested $11,250 to $5,350.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin and Planning Board Chairman Harold T. King explained to the meeting that the professional planner had been retained by the town under Emergency Employment Act funds. The EEZ funds allotted did not cover the salary completely, through a misunderstanding between federal and state agencies.

King explained that the additional funds were needed to meet emergency consultant work which comes from time to time, particularly when the board is faced with town meeting articles at the last minute.

He asked the town to provide the necessary funds to do the job.

FinCom Chairman Greenberg said that the town officials had obtained professional planner to accomplish much of the work now

REVIEWING the 1972 town budget and items for town meeting consideration with Town Manager J. Maynard Austin is newly elected Selectmen Alan F. French.

Action Needed Today For Future Protection

(A Townsman News Feature)

Taking positive steps today to avoid pitfalls tomorrow is viewed as a vital necessity based on the brief experience of newly elected Selectman Alan F. French.

French was successful in his first venture into Andover's political life, offering his experience in business and financial planning to the town, along with a feeling that citizens of the community should be willing to serve.

The Moreland avenue resident felt he had the time to give to the community and to the job as selectman in seeking the three year term this year.

In his brief period in office, French states it will take him some time "to get his feet on the ground," noting there is a tremendous amount to be learned about the town and the job of selectman.

One thing he has learned quickly, however, is that the community and its leaders must look ahead and make decisions which will cause results not immediately evident.

Of particular concern is the matter of approval of new housing developments and the effect they have on the town's drainage system.

Street approvals have been made by town meeting annually, the new selectman notes, yet within a few years the town is compelled to go into new areas and correct drainage and road problems.

The matter came to the board's attention shortly after his election, when Department of Public Works Director Robert McQuade reported on the SIGNS OF SPRING. With spring officially here, Jackie Boisvert examines some of the first significant evidence of the season at the Sheraton Rolling Green Motor Inn, where seasonal flowers, known as snowdrops bloomed forth in multi-colored array this past week.

Late Winter Storms Hit Pocketbook Hard

The effects of the late winter storms had a disastrous effect on the taxpayers pocketbook as evidenced Monday night when town meeting was compelled to increase the snow removal budget by a total of $65,000.

Two particular items have hit the budget hard, that of overtime expenses and the cost of hired equipment.

The winter's major storm, coming as it did on a Saturday, Feb. 19, dipped heavily into the overtime account. The need for increased trucks to assist in snow removal operations for this and subsequent heavy storms also cost the town heavily.

The $65,000 increase requested and approved Monday was to provide $10,000 for the overtime account and $55,000 for the hired equipment category for the remainder of the year.

The snow removal costs and estimates through March 18, prepared by the public works department, shows that $56,680 has been expended of a $187,167 appropriation in the area of payroll. Estimated additional expenditures for the year, are set at $139,698.

As for snow removal expenses, $117,402 has been spent with an estimated $58,650 needed for the rest of the year.

Saturday Is Final Day For Registration

Saturday will be the final day for new voters to register to participate in the Presidential Primary, April 25.

Registrars of voters will be in session on Saturday from 12 noon to 10 p.m. at the town house for the convenience of new voters.

Spring Fashions Abound

By Helen M. Eccles

Spring has officially sprung, in spite of lingering snow.

The spring clothes shopper appears with the vernal equinox, to anticipate the flowers of spring with a bright coat, a new costume, or a spring pants suit. The shelves of men's stores are ablaze with flowered shirts, or ablaze with candy-stripes.

Are America's Easter shopping patterns the same as yesterday? The Curious Citizen visits Andover's clothing stores to ask the managers and clerks.

The women's clothing stores will tell you that the traditional pre-Easter shopping rush is almost gone these days, replaced by more general "spring shopping."

It's just as well, the clerks say, because the two weeks' rush before the Easter Sunday deadline left them exhausted - and then it was all over for the season. Today's spring shopping is more practical for everyone, they say.

One clerk attributes the change to a tendency to dress more simply for church nowadays. This year, for the first time, an Andover store is not stocking girl's "church hats." They simply did not sell last year.

Another clerk attributes the change in America's general rise in affluence.

"When I was young we were poor; I looked forward to that Easter outfit as the good clothes to get me through the spring and all the summer."

Nowadays, she continues, people can usually buy clothes more than twice a year; the spring shopping season now stretches from midwinter vacation bathing suit purchases to spring shopping long after Easter.

It's more practical. Yet Easter and spring both signal rebirth, and when the first crocuses begin to appear, as they did in Andover last week, human beings have the instinct to deck themselves anew, in imitation and celebration. Call it spring shopping or call it Easter shopping, whichever you wish.

What are the trends this year in Andover?

Spring costumes of dresses and coats, or dresses and jackets are appealing to Andover women this spring. Also tre-

REVIEW. Members of the Retail Task Force of the Andover Chamber of Commerce held their mid-year dinner and meeting this past week and reviewed their program, as well as planning for the remainder of the year, including the annual Sidewalk Bazaar promotion scheduled for June. Task Force members are left to right, Thomas Tearnio, William A. Long, Mrs. Mildred Vogel, Mrs. Lucille H. Barrett, chairman of the dinner meeting; Robert M. Henderson, Andover Chamber president; Frank Higgins, John Zenevitch, Jeffrey S. French and Austin E. Anderson.

Chamber Plans For Bazaar

Plans for the annual sidewalk bazaar were discussed at the mid-year dinner meeting of the Retail Task Force of the Andover Chamber of Commerce this past week at the Sheraton Rolling Green

Motor Inn.

The annual promotional event conducted by downtown stores, along with many local church and civic organizations, is planned for Friday, June 23 and Saturday, June 24.

Charles Heseltine, chairman of this year's event, reported that plans are progressing smoothly for the traditional and popular event. Heseltine headed the committee in charge of last year's affair, one of the most successful in the history of the event.

A review of the promotional events of the past year as well as the annual budget was discussed.

The members voted that downtown stores generally would remain open on Good Friday.

Robert M. Henderson, president of the chamber greeted the group.

Mrs. Lucille H. Barrett was chairman of the program and introduced new members Mark Cetlin of Young Fashions, Mr. and Mrs. Ruston Rich of the Bird's Nest and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Goldstein of Off The Rack.

Democracy
In Action

A group of Webelos from Cub Scout Pack 102 got a glimpse of democracy in action Monday night, as they sat in at the opening session of town meeting.

Andy Well, Teddy Teichert, Rusty Serbagi, Michael Case, Paul Hempstead and Sean Farr of the Bancroft School troop, were accompanied by Charles F. Hempstead, den leader and Larry Case, assistant.

The youngsters proved they were learning their scouting lessons well, as they eagerly assisted town officials in passing out financial transaction scorecards and a message from the finance committee at the opening of the meeting.

Masons Plan New Building In Reading

The Reading Masonic Building Association is initiating plans for a major campaign to raise funds for a new masonic temple to begin in mid-April.

The new temple will be located at Haven and Linden streets on property acquired by the association during the past year.

The proposed structure will provide for a new lodge room, banquet hall facilities, a modern kitchen, lounges and storage areas.

Estimated construction cost is $275,000, a portion of which will come from pledges during the fund-raising campaign.

It will be the home of Good Samaritan Lodge, A.F. and A.M. Reading Royal Arch Chapter; Reading Commandery, No. 50, K. T.; Priscilla Chapter, Order of Eastern Star; Reading Assembly, Social Order of Beaucant; Middlesex Chapter, Order of DeMolay and Reading Assembly No. 29, Order of Rainbow for Girls.

H. Sterling French of Andover is a member of the building association, of which C. Russell Hoffman is president. Forest T. Benton is general chairman of the building fund campaign and Willard C. Ames and Jeffrey S. French of Andover are members.

Shawsheen Watershed Group Meets

The Shawsheen River Watershed association will meet on Tuesday, March 28, 8 p.m. at the Billerica Rod and Gun Club, Pond St., Billerica. Visitors are welcome.

Among items on the agenda are the river cleanup project scheduled for April 8 under the direction of chairman Robert Hamilton; reports from biologists Arthur Johnson and Thomas Cone, III; pollution reports by members; land acquisition possibilities; and the proposed canoe race on the river.

Tewksbury and Wilmington members will report on the wetlands articles accepted by the voters at town meetings in both towns. One of the goals of the association is the protection and preservation of the river's wetlands, an important chain in the proper management of any river. Hopefully, the passage of the Tewksbury and Wilmington wetlands protective articles will be an incentive for the voters in the remaining river bordering towns to move in this direction.

President William Gelzinis has announced that several wood duck nesting boxes have been installed along the Billerica section of the river by association members. The boxes, contributed by Bob Wilcox of Billerica are marked.

Dog Clinic Scheduled For April 2

The Andover Board of Health will sponsor a Rabies Vaccine Clinic on Saturday morning, April 1, and also Saturday morning, April 8, at the Shop area of the East Junior High School.

The clinic will be for dogs owned by Andover residents and will be conducted by Dr. Richard D. Lindsay. Clinic hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

According to Dr. Lindsay a new and more expensive rabies vaccine recommended by the Government will be used this year at the clinic. Because of additional costs, the fee for immunization will be higher. The vaccine is guaranteed for a two-year period.

DIAL 475-2614

scheduled for late April.

Al will be remembered by the elder theatre enthusiasts in town for his performances in "Candlelight," "Paths of Glory," and "The First Mrs. Fraser" with the Adventurers, a community theatre group in Andover in the 1930s. Al recalls joining the Adventurers "fresh out of school."

Though he moved from here in 1938, Al continued his theatre group activities in St. Louis and Connecticut appearing in such plays as "Outward Bound," "Charm School," "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "Good-bye, Agaln." He returned to Andover in 1949. Since then he's been active in the Drama Dept. of the Shawsheen Village Women's Club performing in "Curious Savage" and "Anybody's Game."

With all this experience behind him, Al certainly qualifies as a veteran performer in theatre groups. He commends ACT in its efforts to launch a full-scale community theatre in Andover. "They're moving in the right direction. There's a lot of talent and interest in town and it should be encouraged," says Al. He views belonging to theatre groups with much enthusiasm: "It's been a lot of fun in the past, and it's a great way to meet new people." Al hopes that ACT is successful with its first endeavor, "George Washington," a revival of the 1940 comedy: "It's an opportunity to 'revive' a community theatre in Andover."

ACT's next meeting is set for Wednesday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Doherty School. Anyone interested in community theatre is invited to attend.

Though King of England, Richard the Lion-Hearted spent most of his life in France.

IF YOU PAY MOTHER'S TAXES

You're a good son. Your mother lives in her own house, but feeling grateful, you pay her real estate taxes. At tax time you ask yourself, "Can I deduct the taxes I paid for my mother?"

Unfortunately, you cannot deduct taxes for which someone else was legally responsible. The key question, then, is who owns the house? If the house is in your mother's name, the taxes are not deductible, even though you paid them. However, if the house is in your name, they are deductible.

Even if they are not deductible, they do count in determining whether you have provided enough of your mother's support (over 50 percent) to claim her as a dependent.

But don't despair. Even if you lost the deduction, you've gained your mother's gratitude... and that adds a few points in the scheme of life.

PROGRESS. Work continues slightly behind schedule due to recent weather conditions on the construction of the new water treatment plant on the shores of Haggetts Pond.

French

tremendous amount of drainage work necessary in all parts of the town, including many new developments.

Based on this information, French feels the time has come when "we may have to do something about the manner in which we accept streets and new developments."

He noted a recent incident where the town had to go in to assist homeowners in a particular area of the community plagued by flooding conditions.

The town had to retain the services of a skindiver to go in and unplug a drainage system. It was an unaccepted street, but the town had to act to provide relief in the emergency situation.

French feels that such conditions could be averted as well as situations such as the town is now faced with -- a heavy expenditure for storm drainage work -- with an adequate inspection staff and a good engineering examination of new developments before town acceptance.

The drainage work which must be done this year "is just part of the iceberg," French states, noting that the problem is great and costly to the town and can only be averted in the future by holding standards high for new development and construction.

He said he regretted seeing the planning board budget cut at Monday night's town meeting session, feeling that the board should have the funds available to meet emergencies. He said the amount was moderate and that the board had exemplified a judicious use of its budget in the past.

French feels that the selectmen must count heavily on the other town boards to solve the problems of the future. An avid conservationist, French said that the job of selectman must be approached with more than a narrow interest in such an area.

He has resigned his position on the board of the Andover Village Improvement Society to devote the time he feels necessary to accomplish his duties as a selectman -- studying the town and its issues.

French said he would speak strongly for conservation issues when he feels their import is vital to the town.

The selectman feels the town has made a wise investment in the obtaining of open land, wetland, etc., through the efforts of the Conservation Commission.

The funds invested in conservation will render the town an adequate return he feels. Money expended to date has been matched by state and federal funds to the point where additional properties may be obtained from the conservation fund, such as the town will be asked at town meeting sessions this year.

He intends to continue his work in developing a trail system in the town through AVIS and conservation land and hopes for assistance from residents in the town.

This is in the area of recreation, the selectman points out, emphasizing that Andover is enhanced with some beautiful land and trails, thus eliminating the need to go to New Hampshire or distant points to enjoy nature's beauty.

Above all, the new selectman, who started his own specialized sporting goods business in Chelmsford and Concord, seems determined to bring to municipal affairs a sense of fiscal responsibility, based on his own business acumen.

U.S. Main Nickel User

The United States continues to be the main consumer of the metal nickel. During 1969, the country used some 310 million pounds of a free world total of 820 million pounds in fabricating consumer and industrial products.

The peacock is still alive, Andover men's stores will tell you, but he has calmed down his plumage display. Shirts still have flowers or stripes, but this spring they are less likely to have the stripes and the flowers and the whole rainbow all on one shirt.

One store describes it happily as "a cleaner, simpler look," with fewer colors involved, so men don't get all tied up trying to match a tie to that multicolored shirt.

Along with those slightly more subdued shirts, the men seem to be buying sport coats and slacks, not suits, and they like the knits, - knit shirts and double-knit pants. Advisory Group Backs Schools

The Andover PTO Advisory Council, at its Feb. 14 meeting, voted unanimously to support warrant article 47 at town meeting. This article appropriates $60,000 for the preparation of preliminary plans, working drawings and bid specifications for renovations of the Doherty and Shawsheen schools.

The Council feels that, although the needs of the two schools are different, they are of equal importance. The renovations are required for these two schools to have facilities equal to the facilities of the other elementary schools for implementing Andover's curriculum and program of education, the group states.

Gallery Gig At Museum On Tuesday

Patrick Lindley will present a program of French music of the 18th century in a Gallery Gig, March 28 at 7 p.m. at the Museum of Fine Arts. The program will include Rameau's "Gavotte and Variations in A Minor," Couperin's "Dix Huitieme Ordre," and Duphy's "La Forqueray." Also included will be sonatas by Scarlatti, and the Bach Prelude and Fugue in A flat from The Well Tempered Clavier, Book I. The recital will take place in Gallery D-14 and will feature the Hensch harpsichord.

Mr. Lindley is currently teaching a course in music history at the Museum School to complement the art history course taught there. He has performed in recitals in Arizona, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, in addition to Massachusetts and his native California.

Rec. Post Applicants Sought

The Community School Study committee has received three applications for the newly created post of Director of Recreation and Community Schools.

The study group, which has recommended use of the town's school buildings as part of the community recreation program, met Tuesday night to continue their planning of implementing the plan which has been approved by the selectmen, Finance Committee and school committee.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin and the committee have sought applicants from the National Recreation and Park Association and the New England Community School Development Center in Connecticut.

Applications are also being accepted from residents of the area interested in the position.

No deadline has been set as yet for applications.

The new program is designed to offer area recreation facilities throughout the town by using the school facilities after school hours.

Expansion Valley League

A stronger, more active Merrimack Valley Conference the addition of two private schools to the loop is viewed by Andover High Athletic Director R. Swift, after the Golden Warriors were bypassed as a potential member of the Middlesex League.

The Middlesex League, composed of such schools as field, Reading, Lexington chose Burlington as its new member recently after inviting Andover to explore the possibility of joining in their expansion.

Swift viewed the selection of Burlington as being one of commitment by the athletic in the member schools as the hockey program the Middlesex League is on its hockey program with considerable monetary investment in the program.

While the invitation Middlesex League appeal to local sports people, Swift pointed out that the recent expansion of the Merrimack Valley would prove beneficial.

The addition of Central High School of Lawrence in Preparatory School in brings the league membership up to nine.

The area appeal is for the two additional teams the requisites to provide competition in interscholastic athletics, Swift feels.

Entrance into the league is viewed as being helpful to athletic programs of the schools.

Central Catholic boys' basketball team's Thanksgiving Day opponent over this past year's traditional holiday clash in Andover was terminated by the Scarlet Knights joining the Ann League.

The series had a rainy beginning the game was cancelled by the Thanksgiving storm and the inability to use the field for the game weekend.

Swift feels that the school will begin an expansion of its football program with an appointed head coach. The programs will also be with the other conference.

At Austin prep, the school is anticipated at the school as their expanding.

Expansion Could Make Valley League Stronger

A stronger, more appealing Merrimack Valley Conference with the addition of two private schools to the loop is viewed by Andover High Athletic Director Richard Swift, after the Golden Warriors were bypassed as a potential member of the Middlesex League.

The Middlesex League, composed of such schools as Wakefield, Reading, Lexington, etc., chose Burlington as its new member recently after inviting Andover to explore the possibilities of joining in their expansion.

Swift viewed the selection of Burlington as being one of almost commitment by the athletic people in the member schools as well as the hockey program there.

The Middlesex League is strong on its hockey program with considerable monetary investment in the program.

While the invitation to the Middlesex League appealed to the local sports people, Swift pointed out that the recent expansion of the Merrimack Valley League would prove beneficial.

The addition of Central Catholic High School of Lawrence and Austin Preparatory School in Reading, brings the league membership now up to nine.

The area appeal is apparent and the two additional teams have all the requisites to provide strong competition in interscholastic athletics, Swift feels.

Entrance into the league is viewed as being helpful to the athletic programs of the two new schools.

Central Catholic became the Thanksgiving Day opponent of Andover this past year after the traditional holiday clash with North Andover was terminated by the Scarlet Knights joining the Cape Ann League.

The series had a rather bleak beginning the game having been cancelled by the Thanksgiving snow storm and the inability to prepare the field for the game on the weekend.

Swift feels that the Lawrence school will begin an upswing in its football program with a newly appointed head coach. Its other programs will also fit in well with the other conference teams.

At Austin prep, the growth anticipated at the school, as well as their expanding athletic facilities indicates the desire for an active, competitive program there.

The new teams compare favorably with the Andover program in basketball and track, Swift noted.

The Golden Warriors with an exceptional basketball team this past year compiled an outstanding record going to the finals of the Northern District state championship, before bowing to Lexington, the eventual statewide hoop champion in division one.

The Warriors have always been outstanding in track competition.

Y Juniors Defeated In Tourney

The Andover YMCA Junior All-Star team, defending champions in the Greater Boston Pre-Teen Hoop tournament in Somerville, bowed Sunday, 47-32 to St. Francis of Medford in the semi-finals.

Andover will meet East Somerville Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in the tourney consolation game preceding the title final pitting St. Francis against Woburn.

Andover, coached by Frank Monette and Charlie Conlon, had defeated St. Catherine's of Somerville in the preliminary round, and Immaculate Conception of Cambridge in the quarter finals.

There were 20 teams participating in the tournament.

In the semi-finals against St. Francis of Medford, Andover finally saw their two year unbeaten tournament, six game winning streak come to an end as the strong Medford team led all the way with a final score of 47-32. Andover which was never in the game were down 17-5 after the first quarter, 30-10 at the half, 42-12 after three quarters and showed a little life in the fourth quarter as Andover outscored Medford 20-5 but the damage had already been done. Andover could not contain 6 - 1 Dana Cresta who scored the game high of 19 points even though closely guarded with two players. The outside shooting of Dan Paither's 8 points, and inside shooting of Mike Murphy, 7 points, was another added problem Andover had to contend with.

For Andover, Mitch Rousseau was tops with 12 points, Geoffrey Bragdon 6 points, Rick Collins 4 points, Mike Issenberg 2 points, Jon Steen 2, Bob Muldoon 2, Ray Rau 2, Eric Sullivan 2.

The last game is Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at Somerville High School.

In Andover's non-tournament game with the Concord Boys Club which Andover won 46-19, Billy McGuire was tops with 11 points, Mitch Rousseau and Rick Collins 8 points each, Geoffrey Bragdon 4 points, Bruce Slovin, Mark Conlon and Dave Walsh 3 points apiece, Jonathan Steen, Ray Rau and Dan Rush 2 points each with fine play from Eric Sullivan and Robert Muldoon. In the quarterfinals against Immaculate Conception of Cambridge in which Andover won 30-27, Mitchell Rousseau was the star with 15 points as Mark Conlon tossed in 5 points, Rick Collins 4 points, Bill McGuire 3 points, Ray Rau 2 points which came in the last 2 seconds of the game, and Geoffrey Bragdon 1 point.

The top scorer for the Cambridge team was Bill Sheehan 10 points and Mike Garretty 9 points. The game started off with Cambridge taking a 4-3 first quarter lead, but Andover came back in the second quarter on the hot hands of Mitch Rousseau who tossed in 10 points for a 13-9 scoring edge in the quarter and a 19-16 halftime lead.

In the third quarter Andover went ice-cold and were outscored 7-3, for a Cambridge lead of 20-19 entering the final quarter. Andover again came back and outscored Cambridge 11-7 on the 4 points each of Co-Captains Mitch Rousseau and Mark Conlon. Andover was down 25-21 with three minutes to play when Mitch Rousseau grabbed two consecutive rebounds drove the length of the court and made two fine passes to Mark Conlon for two quick buckets and a 25-25 tie. Both teams then traded buckets making the score 27-27 with one minute six seconds to play. Bill McGuire fouled and made the winning foul-shot upping the score to 28-27 Andover. Both teams missed chances after that and Mitch Rousseau pulled down a defensive rebound with six seconds to go.

After a time-out a Mark Conlon pass to Mitch Rousseau to Ray Rau scored a layup bucket with one second left for the Andover final victory margin of 30-27.

"... Through the bar of Oporto."

The generic name "Port" is protected by law. Any wine labeled "Port" must be produced in the Upper Douro Valley region of Portugal and exported through the bar of Oporto. Any other use of the name "Port" must be qualified such as California Port.

The Douro River valley runs from the mountains in the north-east of Portugal west to the Atlantic to the twin cities of Vila Nova de Gaia on the south bank and Oporto on the north bank. In the past it was the practice to run a chain (bar) across the mouth of the river preventing pirates from entering the port. Hence, the phrase "... through the bar of Oporto."

There are five types of Port; Vintage, Crusted, Ruby, Tawny and White. Only in years that exceptional weather and soil conditions produce a wine of outstanding character is an unblended Port of only that vintage produced. Bottled after 3 years in wood, Vintage Port is left to develop and mature for 10 to 20 years. Vintage Port usually carries two dates on its label; the date of the vintage and the date of bottling.

Crusted Port is usually a blend of many vintages and therefore not as distinguished as Vintage Port. Crusted Port is also matured in bottles and both types develop a "crust" a hard sediment, which if broken will never reform leaving the wine clouded. When either of these wines are exported they are decanted into new bottles before shipment.

Tawny and Ruby Ports, often referred to as "wooded Ports," are blended wines and mature in casks normally drunk within a year of bottling. The shippers have found that the wine develops best when kept in a bright clear condition. Twice each year the wine is fined, a process in which beaten egg whites are added to the wine forming a fine film which, as it settles to the bottom, captures any suspended particles in the wine and also some of the wines coloring matter. The longer the wine is kept in wood the more color it loses by fining, becoming increasingly more tawny. Tawny Port is Ruby Port that has been aged longer. Tawny Port is mellow, soft and elegant becoming drier with age while Ruby Port is a richer, fruitier wine bright and ruby red.

White Port made exclusively from white grapes, aged in wood is a soft and very pleasant wine, generally not imported; it is however, a popular aperitif in France.

FinCom Approves Full Amount For Schools

The Finance Committee has approved funding Article 47, for architect's drawings for the renovation of Doherty and Shawsheen schools as a joint project.

The FinCom approved the full $60,000 and also has thrown its weight behind passage of the article as written, to bring joint renovation of the two schools to the bid stage, instead of splitting the article in town meeting.

Approval came Tuesday night at a closed FinCom meeting which followed a joint meeting with the school committee to review educational specifications for renovating the town's two oldest elementary schools. FinCom approval had been refused earlier, for lack of such specific information.

The ed specs satisfied the Finance Committee's requirements for Phase I of planning, FinCom head Dr. Greenberg said, and probably did it at less cost than through a separate stage for architect's preliminary plans. Therefore it was reasonable for the FinCom to approve the money for Phase II, which will bring the joint project to the bid stage.

On the issue of splitting the article, a move which School Committee member Dr. Frank Griggs publicly supports, and the rest of the committee opposes, Greenberg said the town would have to make up its mind, "but if the Finance Committee had thought the article should be split, it would have cut the funds. We feel both schools should be planned for at this stage."

Greenberg points out that if the town passes Article 47 as written, to plan for renovation of both Doherty and Shawsheen, the town will keep its options open to approve final construction funds for both schools, or for just one school, at the March 1973 town meeting when the construction bids are in and the financial picture will be clear.

"The town will then know how much the construction will actually cost, and the status of the expected 65 percent state reimbursement at that time - will it be fully applicable?"

"Both schools require work, and the planning should be done now," the FinCom head stated. "The town can make up its mind next March on whether to go ahead with one or both at that time."

The administration has roughly estimated the joint renovations as costing something over $600,000.

Dr. Seifert computes the joint project as adding a maximum of 18.6 cents per thousand to the town's tax rate for the first year of a ten-year bond issue for $600,000 tapering off to 7 or 8 cents the tenth year. A 20-year bond issue would reduce the effect on the tax rate to about 15 cents, tapering off to one cent the final year.

The revised educational specifications, which the school committee unanimously approved Tuesday evening, design Doherty to "suitably house" 500 pupils, and Shawsheen 325.

This compromise between the administration and the school committee designs for a total population of 50 less than the present combined school population of the two, on the grounds that both schools are slightly crowded now. Shawsheen's square footage per classroom is less than Doherty's, and far less than the state recommendation. Yet the superintendent acknowledged Tuesday night that the schools can contain more than their planned capacity after renovation, as they do now, so that actual pupil spaces will not be lost.

FinCom member Alexander Gibson urged the superintendent to carry through with an idea he once voiced to the finance committee - to ask the architect informally to sketch, and roughly estimate the cost of adding two classrooms to Doherty, to bring the sixthgraders back to the school. This is not, however, in the present plans.

The joint meeting that preceded the FinCom closed session was typical of late March weather - cloudbursts, thunderclaps and intermittent sunshine. Dr. Greenberg played cat and mouse with the schoolmen and administration, provoking information out of them, and pressing them to test how hard the information was. No one would have concluded from the public meeting that the FinCom would come out of their closed session praising the educational specifications, and by the time they came out with their approval, all the school committee and visitors had gone home.

The vocal audience was mostly from Shawsheen, sympathetic to the projects, but pressing for some repairs in the year and a half before the construction would take place.

"If I have to worry about plumbing for another year and a half," snorted Dave Hopwood of Sterling St., "that's terrible." New Committee member William Lane pressed General Supervisor Jack Berberian for repairing the upstairs toilets and bringing hot water into the bottom floor bathrooms under a general maintenance fund. He said a copper pipe from a nearby boiler could provide hot water to the bathrooms very simply. The committee agreed that the repairs were necessary, even if they would be torn out later, in renovation. From the muttered conversation between administrators, it seems likely that some of the unspent Stowe repair money will end up in the Shawsheen bathrooms.

The actual educational specs for the Doherty and Shawsheen renovations would go over the heating, plumbing and wiring of Shawsheen, and Doherty's lighting, require radical improvements and additions to both playgrounds, and bring Shawsheen's kindergartens out of the basement.

Their educational requirements, beyond this, call for three large rooms in each school, in which up to 75 students, with teachers and teacher's aides, can have access to a wide range of instructional materials.

One Sweeper

The public works department requested two new sweepers to carry out its annual spring cleaning and ordinary street maintenance program.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported that bids had been sought and the originally requested amount for new vehicles in the budget would be $100,600, this to include two new sweepers.

DPW Director Robert McQuade said that one of the sweepers is in need of major repair and it was felt that obtaining of the two new ones this year would conform to the Finance Committee plan to trade-in vehicles according to a detailed plan.

The FinCom, however, objected to the new vehicle this year, feeling repairs would suffice and one new sweeper would meet the needs. McQuade, Selectman Roger W. Collins and Milton Greenberg attempted to impress upon the voters the need for the new machinery to maintain the street cleaning program on Andover's over 200 miles of streets.

The FinCom, however, were supported by the voters who reduced the request to $85,600 which will allow for one new machine and put the second back in the repair shop.

Get Dozer

An item debated long and finally defeated at last year's town meeting had clear sailing this year.

The item concerned purchase of a new bulldozer for the dump. Austin explained that the new dozer would cost about $10,000 less than anticipated and the item passed with little debate.

The dump debate centered around the amount of fill needed to accomplish the task of operating the present landfill operation which has been ordered closed by the state by October.

Town officials are hopeful of obtaining an extension of time in order to seek and initiate operations at a new site.

FinCom Chairman Greenberg, urged the town to reduce the $25,000 request for fill by $65,000.

Greenberg referred to the spending of the money as burying dollars. He said fill from town-owned gravel pits could be used. DPW Director McQuade told the town that use of fill available from town pits would be economic folly. He also stressed that whether the fill needed is used at the present site or a new site, it will still cost $125,000.

He also pointed out that the state is considering an extension of the present site and what town meeting decided as to putting forth an effort to clean up the Chandler Road site, would go a long way toward giving the town a breather.

The voters then approved the full amount of $187,750 for expenses of the dump operation. When the funds for the garbage contract came up for consideration, a voter asked that the budget item be increased and that the town include trash pickup as well.

It was ruled out of order, and the $50,000 for a new three year contract approved. The new contract is still under negotiation between the town manager and Nabydoski Brothers, with the current wage-price freeze regulations stalling a final settlement of a new three year contract.

Snow Costs

The snow removal accounts in the highway department were increased to meet the costs of late winter storms as well as the anticipation of needs for next fall and early winter.

Increasing the amount by $65,000 to $293,900 was approved on a standing vote of 456-257.

Former Town Manager Richard J. Bowen asked the snow budget that matter be tabled until such time as an article submitted by him in the warrant dealing with the regulation of salt use could be decided, but this was rejected 386-250.

Tax Rate

At the opening of the budget consideration, Chairman Robert A. Watters of the selectmen complimented the Finance Committee for its work and Bowen for his assistance in preparing the FinCom report.

Watters said that the board and the FinCom had respectful differences of opinion with regard to the budget and warrant items and town needs.

He said that if the selectmen's recommendations were followed the tax rate increase could be $5, while FinCom recommendations would probably result in a $4 increase.

Adding to the difficulty in predicting the tax rate, was the failure of the state to provide the town with estimates of receipts for the year.

In the only other business transacted Monday night, the voters elected John Murray as a trustee of the Cornell Fund and approved the salaries of the selectmen at $800 per member and $1,000 for the chairman and the moderator's salary of $25 per meeting.

Rev. Kenneth J. Kennedy, O.S.A., pastor of St. Augustine's parish gave the opening prayer and Selectman George E. Heseltine led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Beacon Hill Observations

By Bill Kirtz

Sparked by the interest aroused by the Senate's investigation of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company's relations with the Justice Department and by Governor Francis Sargent's new requirement that state regulatory officials report any business contracts they have with lobbyists the 18-month-old national reform group, Common Cause, has fresh hope that some of its five-bill package will get through the Massachusetts Legislature.

This week, Wednesday, March 22, the Joint Legislative Commission on State Administration held hearings on a Common Cause bill filed by Norwood Democrat David Ahearn, to make lobbyists file quarterly expense statements. The measure is designed to eliminate current practices of working to get a bill passed and only then revealing how much was spent in such efforts. The insurance industry, for example, reported it has spent more than $100,000 fighting no-fault auto insurance legislation. But that report came only after the legislative session ended.

Common Cause, a national organization headed by former Health, Education and Welfare secretary John Gardner, has sometimes been dismissed as a group of idealists with a scant sense of political reality.

'Very Much Alive'

But Carol Cohen, director of the group's Massachusetts office, feels the Senate's hearings on ITT "certainly points up how rotten the whole system is in terms of money and influence," and notes that all the Massachusetts bills the group has filed are still "very much alive."

Many Massachusetts politicians feel that Common Cause can help lawmakers help themselves.

Josiah Spaulding, a former Republican State Committee chairman and U.S. Senate nominee, urges the organization's 15,000 paid members throughout the state to "get legislators to do what they don't want to do" and vote to "close the loopholes" of government.

Mr. Spaulding, an attorney himself, says the more than 80 lawyers in the State House and Senate should either "get out of their law firm or out of the Legislature." He therefore backs a Common Cause bill to tighten the Massachusetts conflict-of-interest law by prohibiting firms from practicing before state agencies if one of their members is a lawmaker and by requiring competitive bidding before any public official sets county or municipal work.

Salem Democrat Henry O'Donnell, whose family owns a funeral home, himself notes that the state board which regulates this business is composed entirely of morticians.

Common Cause legislation, he feels, "will raise our image so that we're more than errand boys -- and then our jobs will be easier."

House Minority Leader Francis Hatch also uses the "errand boy" phrase to describe the public's general view of a legislator.

The Beverly Republican, though opposing as too exacting a Common Cause bill to make officials publicize monthly any income source over $100, backs the group's efforts to revise "century-old" Massachusetts rules of legislative conduct.

'Public Has To Help'

"The public has to help these bills get a hearing," Rep. Hatch says, "because legislators are frustrated. People look on us as errand boys. They don't care where we stand on issues."

Mrs. Cohen feels that full disclosure of every lawmaker's income sources would spotlight any hidden vested interests. If there is a conflict of interest, she feels "a legislator should disqualify himself from voting, as a judge would do."

Mrs. Cohen is encouraged by the fact that none of the Common Cause bills has so far received an unfavorable committee report -- which is the first nail in the coffin of thousands of bills each session. The fact that Senate President Kevin Harrington has filed his own bill to require lobbyists to disclose all gifts over $150 to legislators and state officials also heartens Common Cause's sympathizers.

The Harrington measure doesn't cover enough for Mrs. Cohen's taste, but such reformers as Springfield Democrat Alan Sitsky are happy to see any move by the legislative leadership to police their own activities.

James Smith, a Lynn Democrat, looks at the whole reform issue this way: "Our bad image is accurate. We have to do lots of house-cleaning, and we're not terribly responsive. Maybe Common Cause won't succeed, but this year we've made a start and we have to keep trying again and again."

SAFETY FEATURES SHOWING RESULTS

Improvements in car design are reducing crash injuries say insurance companies (and who should know better?) Over the past four years, the severity of injuries has been substantially reduced by the installation of impact-absorbing steering columns, more crash-resistant glass in auto windshields, front and rear seat belts, stronger doors, and other safety features.

As a result, the cost of bodily injury insurance is rising only about one half as rapidly as the cost of vehicle damage, despite the zooming cost of medical care and income replacement.

Further improvements in the number and severity of injuries can be expected to result as newer, safety-equipped cars replace the older models. And current research on "air bags" and other life-saving devices offer hope of additional reductions in the future.

Maundy Thursday Service

On Maundy Thursday Evening, March 30, at 8 p.m. at South Church, United Church of Christ, there will be the traditional service of the Last Supper of our Lord with His Disciples. New members will be received at that time.

The Office of Tenebrae, which follows the Lord's Supper, is an adaptation of an ancient rite established early in the fourth century. The distinguishing feature is the symbolic extinguishing of lighted candles, signifying the approach of our Lord's death and the flight of the disciples. Tenebrae means "shadow." As such they gather until the moment of total darkness recalling the days our Lord was in the tomb. The relighting of the central candle is prophecy of the Easter so soon to dawn.

The word Maundy is derived from the Latin word for "commandment," and refers to the "New" commandment given by Christ on this night. "A New commandment I give unto you, that 21 you love one another."

Richard Nixon was the first vice president to preside over a cabinet meeting, July 22, 1955.

The Schools

The school department returns to town meeting this year with yet another building project - renovation of the Doherty and Shawsheen schools.

Their objective this year seems sensible and worthy of approval of the voters.

The school administration is seeking $60,000 in planning funds to produce preliminary plans and working drawings for the renovation work at the two schools.

A year ago, the school people sought an addition to the Doherty school. At the time, the need for additional space was put forth as the reason for the addition.

Townpeople generally turned the proposals down based on a desire for more affirmative planning, or direction, if you will, of school space priorities. Economic considerations was also a part of the denial of funds a year ago.

In the months that have passed since that decision, the school department has examined its future in a more defined manner.

It is now working on structuring the school system to meet existing space. It is studying such important matters as the extended school year and the open campus plan.

It would appear that the school department has a better grasp of the school building needs now than a year ago.

Immediate needs dictate renovation of the two schools in order to bring the buildings in line with modern educational objectives.

The total project cost of an estimated $600,000 may qualify for the increased state aid now available.

It therefore seems advisable to accelerate the planning stages and get the total project before the voters in time to meet the state qualifying requirements.

Unfortunately, this will not terminate Andover's school building needs.

But it will meet the immediate requirements and provide the time for examination of current studies and enable the school administration to continue their more adequate planning for the future.

We recommend adoption of Article 47 in the town warrant in the full amount.

Parking

Parking in the downtown area is an almost unresolvable problem, based on the theory that it is virtually impossible to please everyone.

Out of the discussion which centered around the so-called town hall parking lot at the meeting of the selectmen a week ago, came the key which must be remembered, we think, in any discussion of parking areas, namely, the convenience of the public.

Chairman Harold T. King of the planning board said it best when he noted that when any discussion of the parking takes place, the merchants generally carry the ball, when, in fact, it is the convenience of the average citizen which should be uppermost.

Discussion had centered around the disposition of the parking lot to the rear of town hall, created by the removal of the Central fire station over a year ago.

Would it be for all day parkers, or regulated to create more activity?

The selectmen decided not to regulate the lot but to stipulate spaces allotted on an hourly basis on adjacent streets and strictly enforced.

To date, the enforcement has been good by the police department.

The decision is on a trial basis.

But, the ultimate decision, which must be faced is whether the town hall lot, or the municipal lot should be regulated.

Consultants are now at work reviewing downtown parking and traffic problems.

We would hope that they will be able to come up with some solutions which will be acceptable to the community in general.

Should the town subsidize parking areas in the center of the community, as it is now doing?

Most assuredly, since it is a vital necessity, not just for merchants, but for the general public.

Any study, to be worthwhile, must take into consideration the needs of the community and produce accommodations in the town's central area for those who visit the section for brief periods, as well as those who must leave their vehicles all day.

In the case of the 45-car lot to the rear of the town hall, we think there could be some space allotted for the transient visitor.

Possibly at the end of the month or so trial period established by the selectmen, such allowance may be possible.

Whatever the case, we would hope that any decisions regarding parking would be made with the convenience of the public uppermost in mind.

Off The Top Of The Desk

School vacation week proved a popular time for many Andover families to visit the Nation's Capitol.

As they travelled about, viewing historic places in Washington, D.C. during the holiday week, it was surprising to run into people from the old home town doing the identical thing.

Many of the youngsters, no doubt, had plenty of material for discussion upon their return to classes on Monday.

Seems we are living in the revival of the ice age.

Indoor and artificial skating rinks are popping up almost everywhere, the latest being in Methuen where voters approved an expenditure at their annual town meeting for the construction of a rink in connection with their new high school and field house.

Reports indicate there are 11, either in existence, underway or in the planning stages in the Greater Lowell area.

A new rink in Haverhill is quickly proving popular there.

What with the success of the Bruins and the Braves in Boston, it is little wonder that the hockey and ice sports are quite popular.

This is the time of year one finds what kind of shape the family car is in.

With the roads plagued by potholes, the unsuspecting motorist finds himself jounced fairly thoroughly as he makes his daily travels.

Spot patching aids in some areas, but subsequent storms and consistent travel generally results in the resumption of rutty roads, awaiting more permanent repair.

Flowers of many spring-blooming shrubs can be forced indoors in two or three weeks. This applies to forsythia, Japanese quince, flowering almond, azalea, magnolia and ornamental cherries and crabapples. Other shrubs may take a little longer.

To force dogwood blooms takes six weeks, says Robert A. Bartlett. Though the petals may be only half the size they are in nature, it is still rewarding.

Immediately after cutting dogwood branches, wrap them in wet burlap or heavy cloth and keep them covered this way for 24 hours. At the same time place the stems in a pail of water, preferably in a room of 60 F. temperature. After the cloth has been removed, spray the buds daily with water. Two weeks later the sap will begin to rise, and at the end of the sixth week the petals will open.

When forcing flowering shrubs, cut long branches. The longer the branch the better the bloom. Promptly immerse them for half a day in tepid water, using a large tub or a bathtub, this softens the bark and buds.

Cut the stems at a slant and put them into a deep vessel filled with water. Each day spray the branches with water. A room temperature of 60 F. is sufficient to open blossoms and hold them well for several weeks. Higher temperatures hasten bloom, but the flowers will not last as long.

Gelatinous substances may form at the base of the stem while in water. Periodically scrub the stems with a brush and slice off a bit of the stem at a slant to keep water-conducting tubes from being plugged.

What has happened to the favorite pastime of those attending town meeting?

There was some knitting going on Monday night, but not as much as usual.

As a rule, there is an abundance of needlework being performed while the annual business is transacted, but this year production of home spun sweaters, socks, etc., appears to be on the decline.

The vernal equinox also marks the maple syrup season in the Pay State. Now is the time to order your syrup -- in ever-decreasing supply, unhappily -- or to visit one of the many maple camps that welcome visitors to watch the sugaring-off process. For a list of maple camps, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, 100 Cambridge St., Boston, Mass. 02202.

Two horse blankets and a lap robe were stolen from the fruit teams of Converse P. Parker of Ballardvale last Saturday night.

The A.V.I.S. have offered to all school children, 15 cents per hundred belts for the destruction of caterpillars. Children living near the Centre can give them to the janitor. Those attending the district schools can give them to their teachers.

Andover cyclists will have variety enough of wheels to choose from this season.

Measles are very prevalent among school children in town at the present in the lower grades.

The trustees of Phillips Academy have given $150 toward putting the campus in better condition. The athletic committee has advanced $100 and the total amount will be expended in constructing a dirt, or "skin" infield.

What Our Readers Say

Concurs

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN: The League of Women Voters of Andover wishes to concur with you in extending congratulations to the town for a superb Finance Committee Report.

Our warmest thanks go to the Finance Committee, Mr. Richard Bowen and Moderator Arthur Williams for jobs well done. If everyone at Town Meeting this year gave even cursory attention to the report before the meeting we should have a well informed body.

Again our thanks to all involved in this outstanding report.

Parking

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

I have read with interest the discussion on use of the "Fire Station" parking lot in the Tribune and the Townsman. I have a business near this lot and would probably benefit to some extent by regulated parking. However, it also comes to mind there is very limited parking for those employees of any business in the downtown area for all day parking.

As for myself I live close enough that I can walk. There are however a great many persons employed downtown who are not this close.

Regardless of what has been said by Mr. Grecoe all the Main Street Merchants were not polled by him on use of this lot. I was not polled nor were at least two others that I know of.

Not only do I have employees who would be unable to walk to work but I am sure many of the municipal employees in the town hall as well as a great many others also find themselves in this position.

Agreed we need parking very badly for customers and in some instances delivery cars but I feel we also need them for those of us who work to serve the customer.

Andover's Educational Perspective

By Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert
Supt. of Schools

For the past six months we have attempted to inform the community regarding this year's budget and its relationship to the educational program.

There is only so much time that can be spent on a given aspect of operating a school system, e.g. the budget. It is now time that we begin to discuss another dimension of education -- student behavior.

In the past few years, public school education has experienced pressures and criticism from many sources. Such concerns in many cases have been justified. Any social institution today that is not changing has only a limited time before it becomes unnecessary as a social agency. Educating children would be a relatively easy task if we had a society whose goals were obvious and if that same society were committed to those goals. The next time you meet with friends, discuss discipline, Vietnam, pollution, representative town meeting, etc. See if you can reach agreement. The point being made is that we do not have agreement on where we are headed as a society and this directly affects the behavior of our students.

Through the years, public school education has incorporated a number of social services that have caused our budget to increase. This was not because we wanted education to cost more money, but rather that additional services for our children had to be provided. Philosophically, this was most admirable and humane, but with limited funds we must re-examine our primary goals.

In the months ahead, we plan to share with the community those problems the school cannot control itself.

We have a drug abuse problem that will require the cooperation of parents, schools, and town agencies.

In the near future we will have an open meeting to discuss the problem of drug abuse in the Andover Schools.

Student behavior problems such as overt aggressiveness, lack of respect, and confused value structures, are the kinds of problems that cause serious strains on the system. This also disrupts the educational process.

As a community we need to discuss why the problems exist and what we will do about them.

Andover is neither better nor worse than any other community with regard to the problems of drugs and student behavior; but I believe it safe to say that as a community we should do something more deliberate about the resolution of them.

Women's Lib Subject For Coffee House

Woman's Liberation will be the subject for panel discussion at the People's Choice Coffee House Friday evening, March 24 at 8:30 p.m.

People's Choice meets at the Unitarian Universalist Church of Andover, 244 Lowell St. (Rt. 133).

China Altman, talkmaster of the Now Generation Show, heard Sunday evenings, will moderate the panel discussion. Panel participants will be members of women's mutual support group that has been meeting regularly in Andover since early October. This group of 20 women represents a significant cross section of this area's class, cultural and economic groups. They have been meeting to help each other strip away the artificial role playing they experience as being women in today's world.

An opportunity for dialogue, questions and answers will be provided at this program.

People's Choice is a program oriented coffee house for adults to which youth are welcome. It meets at 8:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Church in Andover.

People's Choice is open to the general public. A modest admission charge helps cover on-going expenses.

Memorial Hall Library

New Art Exhibit

Decorative flower paintings and bold animal art is now on view at the library, the work of Mrs. Marjorie L. Clark of Groveland, Mass. Mrs. Clark uses oils for her medium, and does all her own framing of the finished paintings. A mid-westerner before coming to Massachusetts, Mrs. Clark received her art training at Fort Wayne Institute in Fort Wayne, Indiana. She has studied with well known artists from Rockport since coming east.

Our artist of the month has exhibited locally in various studios and galleries in the New England area, and recently in New York City. Mrs. Clark has a membership in the Rockport Art Association, the North Shore Art Association and the Haverhill Art Association. Other interests include organic architecture, raising exotic plants and raising endangered species of birds.

Salt Info

The topic of using salt on the highways to melt the snow and ice is a highly controversial one in many communities, including Andover. The library has a significant amount of information on both sides of this vital, community problem. The Salt Institute claims that salt is the only efficient way to handle large amounts of snow, and to give northern towns the dry roads that the citizens need and demand in the winter time. The conservationists point out that salt is harmful to the vegetation growing along the highway, to the water supply, and also that it corrodes automobiles. Come to the library and find the answers to any questions you may have about using salt on our highways in the winter time.

Rental

Those townspeople who have been in the library within the last two weeks are already familiar with the fact that we are now circulating books on a rental basis of five cents a day. The books are chosen on the basis of their current popularity and they include both fiction and non-fiction titles. If you have been having difficulty getting hold of a book on the best-seller list, come to the library and you may be able to take it home with you. You will pay five cents when you sign out the book and five cents for every day thereafter until you return the book.

Opera

The Library Opera Club will hold its next meeting on April 14 at the home of Mrs. Gwen Smith, 158 Dale St., North Andover. The group is growing by leaps and bounds and is planning on attending two operas in Boston in April when the Metropolitan comes to Boston. If you are fond of opera, why not join us on the 14th of April at Mrs. Smith's house.

Great Books

The Great Books Program will hold a meeting on March 28th in the Print Room of the library at 7:30 p.m. The discussion will be centered on The Canterbury Tales by Geoffrey Chaucer. Two meetings will be held in April, one on April 11 and another on April 25. At the first meeting Ibsen's play Hedda Gabler will be under discussion. The group will take up The Turn of the Screw by Henry James at the meeting on April 25. This short story is available in Great Short Works of Henry James which is available at the library or at the bookstore for .95. Ibsen's play can be purchased at the bookstore for $1.25 and is also in the library.

Children's Room

Programs in the Children's Room this week will include a special meeting of the Storytellers' Workshop on Wednesday at 3:30 and an Easter Escapade at the Story Caravan on Thursday afternoon at 3:45. Have you guessed the surprise coming at the March 30 Story Caravan?

Anyone who has participated in Dramarama and would like to continue to be a member is asked to come into the Children's Room to make sure we have him on our registration list. There will be no meeting of the drama groups on April first, Holy Saturday, and a complete registration list is necessary so that everyone can be notified before the next meeting.

Pick-it-up week, during which all lost and found articles in the Children's Room are up for grabs, is continuing until tomorrow, March 24th. Any items not picked up by that time will be given away so that some use can be made of them.

Programs for April, May, and June are now being planned. Any suggestions? Come in and share your thoughts!

Ashram Yoga Classes To Be Given

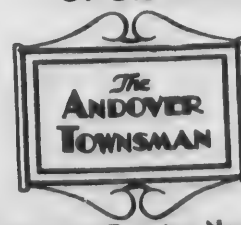

Joann Sherwood, founder and director of the Ashram Yoga Centers, will conduct yoga classes at the Christian Formation Center, River Road, on 10 consecutive Wednesday evenings at 6:30 p.m. beginning on April 12.

The Ashram Yoga Centers, sponsoring these lessons, are located throughout the New England area and are the oldest yoga schools in New England which train teachers and give yoga retreats in addition to conducting yoga classes.

Although the yoga sessions will cover Hatha Yoga (the physical aspects of yoga), yoga philosophy and other branches of yoga will also be touched on in the series of lessons.

Both men and women are admitted to the course. For further information and pre-registration call Laurelle Parrotta at the Christian Formation Center.

Bluebirds Have Problems

Talk about slum housing: you ought to see some of the crummy boxes that bluebirds live in!

Bluebirds deserve the abuse, in a way. They should have been wise enough to scrounge a fistful of twigs and line the mess with mud like other thrushes. But, they got uppity and started living in holes in trees. Now they pay the price in poor housing since other birds ousted them from tree holes.

If you're willing to smash a thumb, you may be able to help the situation. There's an outfit, or two, that have blueprints for converting a pine plank into a bluebird house. Your lack of ability as a carpenter should not deter your leaping in with hammer on the project. Unquestionably, some of the more pitiable structures ever assembled are bird houses. Somehow, birds seem to accept the worst of them. Perhaps they gave up long ago hoping that cabinet makers would solve the bluebird plight.

We wish we could assure you that having built a bluebird house you can be certain that harbingers of happiness will flit about your lawn. But it doesn't work that way. The most we can guarantee is that without a bird box on the lawn, you have no chance of it happening.

Having given vent to the negativeness that blackens our heart, let us say that the bird box game has more rewards than horseshoes and pitching pennies. You can miss badly and still come out a winner. Maybe--well, maybe we should say more likely--tree swallows will move into your bird box. If you wish to reduce the number of flying insects over your lawn, tree swallows can turn the trick. In fact, they live on insects collected in flight. We wish we had the baseness to tell you that tree swallows live exclusively on mosquitoes but unfortunately no bird does.

Back in the days before New England replaced apple orchards with the modern outdoor apple factories that function on hard pesticides, bluebirds inhabited holes in apple trees. In fact, bluebirds then were common yard birds--common enough that market hunters peddled them in the wild game meat trade.

In baseball, the rule that a foul bunt is scored as a strike was introduced in 1894.

Rev. Marshall J. Halpern, O.S.A., officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of soft chiffon velvet appliqued with Venice lace and seed pearls with a matching Juliet cap. She carried white roses and baby's breath centered with red tea roses.

Mrs. Richard Maitland was her sister's matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Carmine Santagate and Mrs. Richard Noonan. Miss Bethany Maitland was her aunt's flower girl. All were identically gowned in red velvet with white Venice lace trim, carrying white fur muffs.

Richard Noonan was his brother's best man and ushers were Richard Maitland, Mark Reed and Daniel Noonan, brother of the bridegroom. The ring bearer was Scott Maitland, nephew of the bride.

Following a reception at the Andover Country Club, the couple left for a wedding trip to Mount Snow, Vt.

The bride, a graduate of Salem State College, is a teacher in North Reading.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Plymouth State College, where he was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, is employed with John Hancock in Boston.

The desire of the group is to bring together those people who enjoy singing good music and wish to share their talent and time with others.

The special guest soloist, Dr. James Houghton, studied music at the University of Iowa and did his graduate work at Harvard University. He has sung extensively in the United States and Europe, doing solo recitals and appearing with orchestras and choral groups. He was at Boston University for 40 years, serving as Chairman of the Voice Department, director of the B.U. Glee Club, Professor of Vocal Music, director of the University

Chorus, and The Seminary Singers which he founded in 1927. Since his retirement he has devoted his time to singing church music and teaching the art of singing at his home in Lynnfield.

Interest In Transport
Measure

Inclusion of Merrimack Valley in Governor Francis W. Sargent's Regional Transit Development bill has been noted with interest by transportation observers at the State Capital.

Merrimack Valley cities and towns named in the legislation are Lawrence, Haverhill, Andover, Groveland, Merrimack, Methuen and North Andover.

Local control of financial aid and the hopeful expansion of private carrier service have been important considerations in the preparation of Governor Sargent's bill.

Equally important, no new or increased taxes will be necessary as part of the Regional Transit bill, there are provisions for both a $15m bonding authorization from the cigarette tax for capital improvement programs to up-grade vehicle fleets and a $300,000 appropriation to allow for any necessary operating subsidy grants.

The nine proposed corporations are designed to function independently to be able to meet each region's public transportation needs. They cannot become transit operators, but rather serve as conduits to channel state and federal funds toward expansion of public transportation services by private carriers within each region.

For passengers in the Merrimack Valley, up-grading and expansion of public transportation modes will allow greater convenience and comfort. More economic and modern vehicles, which may be obtained through capital improvement funds, will bring flexible transportation facilities into reality.

Actual formation of the Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Development Corporation is voluntary and will be decided by a majority vote of the fifteen towns named in the legislation. Directors must be permanent residents of cities and towns within the region. Each region is not only free to use planning staff capabilities of any existing regional economic development organization, but to determine membership, the scope of activities, and salaries, if any, or its staff or directors.

According to Governor Sargent, "Within this framework of local control, the regions need not come to the state to provide for their local concerns. State approval is only required of actions which involve state funds, a necessary requirement for both fiscal responsibility and balanced statewide transportation planning."

You get just about the same headroom and legroom in an Audi as you do in a $23,800 Rolls-Royce.

The Audi 100LS isn't a very big car. On the outside.

But don't let that fool you about the size of the car on the inside.

You'll find there's more headroom than you'd ever expect. Enough for, say, a person 6'6". And if he's got unusually long legs (which a person of his size usually has) he won't have to sit clutching his knees. Because there's more legroom than you'd ever expect.

Mind you, he's not the only one who would sit comfortably. The Audi can seat a family of five rather nicely.

Now the $23,800* Rolls-Royce isn't the only great car the Audi has a lot in common with.

The Audi has rack-and-pinion steering like the racing Ferrari. And front-wheel drive like the Cadillac Eldorado.

The Audi has the same type of brakes as the Porsche 917 racing car. And independent front suspension like the Aston Martin.

Our interior looks so much like that of the Mercedes-Benz 280SE, you can hardly tell them apart.

And as for service, you'll get the same kind of expert service a Volkswagen gets. Because a Porsche Audi dealer is part of the VW organization.

Impressed? You should be. After all, the Audi bears a startling similarity to some of the world's finest automobiles.

But what makes the Audi especially impressive is its price tag.

It's a lot less than you'd expect to pay for that many great cars.

The $3,900* Audi*
It's a lot of cars for the money.

*Suggested retail price $3,855 East Coast P.O.E. (West Coast P.O.E. slightly higher).

Music To Our Ears

By Edward P. Grigoli
Director of Music
The trombone, a sliding tube affair related to the medieval

"sackbut", consist of a long cylindrical metal tube bent back upon itself twice and ending in a bell. The player can slide the moveable crook into anyone of seven positions and thus with the tautness of the lips can produce the desired pitches by segmentation of the vibrating air column. The farther the slide is extended the lower will be the pitch of the fundamental and its overtones. Though the listener will more often hear and see the so called tenor (range E-2 to B-flat-2) and the base (range C-2 to F2) trombones, there also exist the more rare alto and contrabass trombones, each with its individual tone quality and range. We have heard a tenor trombone with a special lever mechanism and extra pipe complings which enables the player to go down by half steps from (e-2 to B-flat-3) and to go as high as B-flat-2 or even E-Flat-2, as Tommy Dorsey often did. Unusual trombone ranges and speed sometimes heard are probably due to small instruments, "trick" mouthpieces, and special lip and slide techniques-usually with a sacrifice of tonal quality. There is also in use a valvetrombone which can be played with greater facility and speed than the slide trombone.

The trombone is a non-transposing instrument, though it is based acoustically upon B-flat as a fundamental tone. It is richer in quality and can be played in more accurate pitch than other brass instruments. It is effective in passages of solemn grandeur; and when loudly played, its tones are brilliant, powerful, and even threatening. When the three trombones, usually with the bass tuba, are played together in a soft, sustained passage, they sound like the blended intoning of men's voices, or the restful foundation (diapason) tones of a church pipe organ.

You'll be doing both your health and comfort a favor if you make sure not to set your thermostat higher than 72 degrees Fahrenheit during the day. An overheated house will sap your strength and make you tired.

Contrary to popular belief, it is unlikely that a hot bath before retiring will help you to get your beauty sleep. On the other hand, doctors say a warm bath might because it's more relaxing.
